

Animal system

Animal digestion: Animal digestion begins in the mouth, then moves through the pharynx, into the esophagus, and then into the stomach and small intestine. Nutrients are absorbed in the small intestine and waste is prepared for elimination in the large intestine.

