

Management Information Systems (MIS)

❑ Management information system (MIS)

- An MIS provides managers with information and support for effective decision making, and provides feedback on daily operations
- Output, or reports, are usually generated through accumulation of transaction processing data
- Each MIS is an integrated collection of subsystems, which are typically organized along functional lines within an organization

A/C

Management Information Systems - MIS

Accounting College.co.uk